NAVAL ESTERS.

It is suggested for the consideration of Congress, whether the privilege, by the act of the late seasion, conferred upon soldiers, to send letters without prepayment of postage, should not be extended to sailors and marines in the actual service of the United States, under such regulations as the department shall provide.

Main Carriers Fre.

By the act approved March 3, 1825 (section 20), it is provided that a muit carrier shall receive and deliver for mailing at the next office any letter delivered to him for that purpose more than a mile from such office. He is antitled for such carriage to demand and receive one cent from the postmaster for this service. Under the prepayment system now adopted, this provision should be amended so as to allow him to demand this fee of the writer, in money, and of the postmaster only when the lotter shall bear a prepaid stamp for one cent additional to the postage.

MEWSPAPEES.

letter shall bear a prepaid stamp for one cent additional to the postage.

NEWSPAPES.

By the existing law (section 16 of act approved March 3, 1845), "newspapers" are declared to embrace printed matter issued by numbers, and published monthly, and are entitled to the same privilege of free exchanges and low rates of postage as daily and weekly newspapers endoy. It is ascertained that this classification is abused by the publication of monthly issues of printed matter chiefly designed as an advertising circular, or to procure free exchanges for the proprieter, and they are often sent gratuitously.

I recommend that the definition of a newspaper as given by that act, be amended by substituting the words, published at short stated intervals of not more than one week, for the words, "published at short stated intervals of not more than one month." Also, that the privilege of free exchange of publications be limited to newspapers as thus defined, and literary, educational or religious periodicals published not less frequently than once a month. It is found that considerable frauds are perpetrated

It is found that considerable frauds are perpetrated upon the revenues of the department by publishers of newspapers, who include, mingled with the packages sent to their regular subscribers, numbers of their issues which are not sent to their regular subscribers, and which are, therefore, subject to postage as transient matter.

To remedy this evil I recommend that discretion be given to the head of this department to exclude, temporarily, from the mails any news; aper or periodical whose proprietors or agents shall send any of their issues without propayment of postage to other than tone, fide subscribers; or, otherwise, that an express penalty be imposed for any auch act.

posed for such act.

ONGRESSIONAL POST ROUTES.

It is frequently found expedient, in connection with the progress of railroad communications or changes of principal transportation routes, to change the termini of Congressional mail routes intersecting them.

I suggest, for the consideration of Congress, the propriety of expressly authorizing this department to change the termini and lines of Congressional mail routes intersecting principal routes on which the mails are carried daily, whenever the postal service can be thereby improved.

The twelfth section of the act of 1861 declares sundry additions to matter which may be sent through the mails. Various applications have been made to include other like matter, not expressly named therein, as mailable matter.

Various applications have been made to include other like matter, not expressly named therein, as mailable matter.

It is suggested whether it would not be expedient to invest the department with the discretion to allow such other matter to be transmitted through the mails, at corresponding rates of postage, as the Postmaster General shall by order designate and allow. The public convenience and the revenues of the department would derive benefit from such discretionary power.

CARRINA'S FEE.

I renow the recommendation of my predecessor, that power be given to the department to regulate the carrier's fee, not exceeding the amount of two cents for the delivery of each letter. It cannot be sustained in some of the cities and districts without an increased rate. So long as it is discretionary with the party addressed to employ the services of the carrier or not, no just reason is perceived why the former discretion should not be given for the purpose of facilitating so important a branch of the postal service.

Requests have been made from several cities for the establishment of branch offices for the recoupt and delivery of letters auxiliary to the city Post Office. I have been unwilling to establish them without some provision being made to meet the additional expense, for which the same fee allowed to carriers, one ceut, would be sufficient. By the law authorizing their establishment (1847, chapter 63, sec. 10) no charge is permitted for this additional service. I respectfully suggest, for the consideration of Congress, the propriety of amending that law and of granting this authority; and also of investing this department with the authority to rect many city bxx-pilars for the receipt of letters to be mailed, to be thence collected by carriers, for which the fee of one cent each letter shall be prepaid by stamps.

A revised code of the postal laws, bringing together in

A revised code of the pestal laws, bringing together in proper arrangement the various statutes now gathered only by the examination of the legislation of many years, would greatly facilitate the performance of their duties by the numerous officers and agents attached to this department. This subject is respectfully commended to the attention of Congress.

RAIROAD SERVICE.

In the last annual report of my predecessor mention is attention of Congress.

RAIROAD SERVICE.

In the last annual report of my predecessor mention is made of the refusal or neglect of a large number of railroad companies engaged in the conveyance of mails to execute the contracts required by law of all contractors. When a railroad is constructed through a district of country, competition in the conveyance of passengers, mails and merchandise ceases on the route. Demand is immediately made for the mails and without reference to the importance of the offices to be supplied, at a compensation much above that previously paid for ecach and horse service. Increased speed is the only advantage which the service gains, although with respect to private business this is invariably accompanied with a great reduction of cost. The subject demands attention from Congress, and that measures be adopted to enable the government to contract on fair terms with these companies. The existing rates of compensation are in my judgment too high, and even at such rates the government is at the mercy of the companies. The government has the power to compel them to carry the mails at fair rates, so it has the right to the use of all private property necessary for its purposes, upon making jest compensation: and provision should be made to resert to this power when fair arrangements cannot be made by way or contract. This would enable to resert to this power when fair arrangements cannot be made by way or contract. This would enable to resert to this power when fair arrangements cannot be made by one of contract. This would enable to resert to this power when fair arrangements cannot be made by way or contract. This would enable the department to deal with the companies on equal terms.

CHANGE OF CONTRACTS FOR DISLOTATIVE.

manie to resert to this power when fair arrangements cannot be made by way or contract. This would enable the department to deal with the companies on equal terms.

Change of contracts for distorairy.

Son after the commencement of my term of office the country feit the shock of internecine arms. In view of the great orime attempted against the existence of the mation, it became the duty of this, in common with the other departments of the government, to put forth all its emergies to prevent the consummation of that crime. By the existing laws all postmanters and mail carriers, and all other persons engaged in handling the mails of the United States, or in electical service, were required to take the usual cath of allegiance to this government, as well as for the faithful performance of their duties. Whenever it was made apparent by their declarations, or by their conduct, that there was a practical repudiation of the obligation of this oath, whether the party was a postmaster or a postal contractor, I ordered a removal from office in the one case and the deprivation of contract in the other. Not only was it unsafe to intrust the transportation of the mails to a person who refused or failed to recognise the sanctions of an oath, but to continue payment of public money to the names of the government and their allies, was to give direct aid and comfort to treason in arms. I could not thus permit this branch of government to contribute to its own overthrow. No other course could have reasonably been expected by such contractors. The bona fall coherence of the declaration, of the contract itself. This failing, the department was equitably and legally discharged from its literal obligations. Pricection on the part of government, and allegience on the part of the citizen, are correlative, and are condition a part of the citizen, are correlative, and are conditions mutually dependent in every contract, and the highest public interest demanded the rigid enforcement of this rule of action. Occasional local and transient indulged in by any rational man. This would be to allow to overy citizen the right to destroy at his pleasure the regutation, the peace, the property, and even the personal safety, of every other citizen. A man might, out of more malice or revenge, accuse another of the most infamous crimes; might excite against him the indignation of all his fellow citizens by the most atrocious calumines; might disturb, nay, overturn all his domestic peace and embitter his parental affections; might inflict the most distressing punishments upon the weak, the timid and the innecent; might prejudice all a man's civil and political and private rights, and might stir up sedition, rebellion and treason, even against the government itself, in the wantonness of his passions or the corruption of his heart. Civil society could not go on under such circumstances. Men would then be obliged to resort to private vengeance to make up the deficiency of the law; and assassinations and savage cruelities would be perpetrated with all the frequency belonging to barbarous and cruel communities. It is plain, then, that the larguage of this amendment imports no more than that every man has a right to speak, write and print his opinions upon any subject whatever, without any prior restraint, so always that he does not injure any other person in his rights, person, property or repeatation; and so always that he does not thereby disturb the public peace, or attempt to subvert the government."

Of the cases presented for my action, upon the principles above named, I have, by order excluded from the misi twelve of these treasonable publications, of which several had been previously presented by the grand jury as incendiary and heatile to constitutional authority. I have the honor to be, &c., your obedient servant,

M. BLAIR, Postmuster General.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

Money grows more abundant day by day. Bankers and brokers refuse to allow over three percent for money deposited with them, and many houses decline to receive money at any rate of interest. Still the street brokers generally pay 6 per cent for loans on stocks. First class paper passes easily at 5 a 5% per cent, and names which till lately were not current except at very high rates can now be passed at 7 a 8 per cent. It does not seem to have been remarked that the distinct pledges contained in the President's Message and the reports of the departments, with regard to the recovery of Southern debts due to loyal creditors, impart a new value to paper which has been in very low repute here since the war broke out. Congress will probably at this session provide a means for the recovery of these debts, and thus a large portion of what is generally considered "dead paper" by our banks may turn out more valuable than is supposed Quite a large number of Southern debtors would pay what they owe but for fear of the despotism under which they live. The consciences of the more dishonest debtors will have to be quickened by our troops.

Nothing is doing in exchange to-day. Some leading bankers cling to the belief that rates must advance and specie flow out. It is abundantly evident that, even if their views are correct, the flow of specie could not prove so heavy as to inconvenience the banks: there is no such demand for bills as could cause a weekly shipment of over a quarter of a million. We could spare twenty millions to advantage.

Stocks were quiet to-day. Business remains dull, operators generally being anxious to hear from England and to read the report of the Secretary of the Treasury before buying. Virginia sixes rose 1 per cent; Missouris were steady. The move-ment in the railway shares was irregular. Galena rose 1/2, Rock Island 1/8, Michigan guaranteed 1/2; while, on the other hand, Erie declined 1/4, Hudson 1/4, Harlem preferred 1/4, Reading 1/4, Michigan Central 1/4, Millwaukee and Prairie du Chien 1/4, Central, Harlem old, Panama, Illinois Central, Toledo and Burlington were without change. The market was dull at the close, the following being the last quotations:--United States 6's, registered, 1881, 893/4 a 90; do. 6's, coupon, 1881, 93 a 931/4; do. 5's 1874, 82½ a 83; Indiana 5's, 75 a 79; Virginia 6's' 48½ a 48½; Tennessee 6's, 40½ a 41½; North Carolina 6's, 60 a 61; Missouri 6's, 40 a 40\(\frac{1}{2}\); Pacific Mail, 85 a 85\(\frac{1}{2}\); New York Central, 77\(\frac{1}{2}\) a 77\(\frac{1}{2}\); Erie, 31 a 31\(\frac{1}{2}\); do. preferred, 52\(\frac{1}{2}\) a 52\(\frac{1}{2}\); Hudson River, 36\(\frac{1}{2}\) a 37; Harlem, 11\(\frac{1}{2}\) a 12; do.

run. The coupon bonds are to be protected by the peculiar tint work patented by the National Bank Note Company, which has proved such an effectual safeguard against counterfeiting, and which has been adopted by a number of banks whose notes. made by the old combination of engravers, have been successfully counterfeited of late. .This new contrivance, by multiplying the name of the institution and denomination of the note many times, prevents alteration, while the difficulty of copying the intricate work defeats the art of the hand en graver, and the introduction of various colors proves an insurmountable obstacle to the photographer. It is well known that the United States demand notes are of that exceedingly black, heavy, coarse style of work which has been so successfully counterfeited of late, and it would be well for the government to procure a new set of plates, with the latest improvements, in anticipation of the discovery of counterfeits. The first instalment of the second batch of 7.30 notes will go on to Washington to morrow. The company has already transmitted to Washington about $29,000,000 of demand notes $19,000,000 of which Mr. Chase is believed to have

Mr. John A. Stevens, President of the Bank of Commerce, is in Washington, in consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Stevens is popularly supposed to be in favor of a national bank of issue, whose notes shall be a legal tender; such a bank to be, if required, a bank of deposit, but on no account a bank of discount. The pub lic were disappointed to-day at not receiving the report of the Secretary of the Treasury; it will not be ready until Saturday, and it is probable that the New York public may not be enabled to read it before Monday or Tuesday. When the Secretary was here a few days ago, he stated to friends that he had not determined upon a financial policy. that he had not determined upon a financial policy. The same of the schemes of our national enemies. These efforts were persistently directed to the advancement of hostile interests, to thwart the efforts made to preserve the integrity of the Union, and to accomplish the results of open treason without inturring its judicial prosecution was to allow crime to be consumated, with the expectation of subsequent punishment, instead of preventing its accomplishment by prompt and direct interference.

The freedom of the press is secured by a high constitutional snaction. But it is freedom and not license that is guaranteed. It is to be used only for lawful purposes. It cannot aim blows at the existence of the government, the constitution and the Jinion, and at the same time claim its protection. As well could the assassin strike his blow at human life, at the same time claim its protection. As well could the proses such treasonable pakitations, but left them free to publish what they pleased, it could not be called upon to give them circulation. It could not and would not interfere with the freedom secured by law, but it could and die obstruct the dissemination of that license which was without the paid of the constitution and law. Money is as easy as ever. Any quantity can be had at 5 to 6 per cent by strong names, either on call or time. Outside rates run up to 12 per cent; but they almost always do that on the "fancies," or out of the way securities; but the whole market is odd, within and without the banks. The latter held about seven and a half millioner descript. the banks. The latter held about seven and a half mil-lions of specie. They have paid government eighten mil-lions of dollars since August 20, and have received from government about nine millions for outside sales of 73.10 notes. On Saturday there was a brisk demand for the loan, and when the probable future of our foreign rela-tions is well settled to the satisfaction of the timorous, the demand may be even more active. Even at this duliest period, however, the Boston sales have averaged $200,000 to $300,000 per week. The January dividends will be large, and a considerable portion of them will probably go into the loan.
